Subject: Question for today's webinar

Dear colleagues-

Thanks for the informative webinar. My question: The UN IPCC 1.5C report found that to avoid irreversible consequences, we must slash greenhouse gas emissions in half by 2030 while making significant progress toward removing hundreds of billions of tons of warming pollutants we've already dumped into the atmosphere. How is the state addressing carbon sequestration at scale as called for by the science to return to safe climate?

Thanks again,

Ellie Cohen
