The Secretary briefly mentioned the role of local governments. Would the study be explicitly exploring the connection between the outcomes and local governments (for example, whether sufficient progress has been made on streamlining permitting processes for EVs). I'd recommend that local government's role is addressed to account for substantial commitments already made by local policymakers like for what we've done here at LA County with the recent adoption of our sustainability plan calling for a fossil fuel-free LA and the City of LA's Green New Deal.
